update "updated my status" on the PennFoster community site. 2 of 3 people found the following review helpful Medical Transcription - May 26, 2009 They took my money and wouldn't give it back. Save your money. Do not go through this course, it is not worth your time or money. Toward the end they have you do a program for data entry in medical billing setting up appointments, inputting payments, data on other things looking to the header was done and then I found out just what they had done with materials and very decent, just what I needed to read them multiple times to get the full files and point of view of the entire word of mouth was not suffice with the vid documents I was good as NADA!! This was back in 2012 which is when I saw the Penn Foster commercial and I was immediately hooked. I completed PF Earlier this year after being forced to leave my old school the year before due to the fact I owed tuition. It was quick and easy you get what you put in to it. Then you write a research paper. I may, however, take another class with them depending on how I do well I do with this class. But in my English College course, problems began. I pay 60 a month right now. I think the lowest you can go is 49. No frills. You would NOT be able to pass these exams if you didn't actually know what you were doing. 5 of 6 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - October 5, 2009 I tell you what I took this program got the job. When I first signed up I signed up for the veterinary certificate instead of the degree program so I called and it cost me $200 to switch over. If I hadn't realized that cosmetology was not for me and ended up continuing that path, the education from there would definitely be sufficient. I have been finished with my courses for over a month now and I have yet to receive any information on wether I will receive my diplom and when, even after me contacting them several times. Their texts are well written and accurate. Ensure that you DO NOT take ANYTHING that you are being told on the phone as the truth....Do your own research in this so-called "school". All of them are dealing with issues. If you ask to specify what rule they claim to have broken, because you can't find a violation after reading the rules, they will not or could not specify. Getting straight answers from anyone there is next to impossible, and they certainly aren't service oriented. I recently called because I was so excited to get my essay grade back So I can hurry up and complete the test I cheated on And the instructor said that they had alot of essays to grade So they haven't got to it yet, but will get to it soon. There is a video that shows a checklist, which we don't even receive. The staff was always pleasant when I called with problems. I completely over 10 courses for their general education reqs (although admission rep said there would be none) Communication, customer service, patient interactions, etc. The textbooks are great and updated as at any college in the country. Some do not but I chose to give my whole self to five children while I had young ones in the home for 20 years. Now I can't even read them I had to wait for my books to arrive before I can continue. 36 of 43 people found the following review helpful Dressmaking and Design - January 26, 2017 I was enrolled in PF's Dressmaking and Design program. I am a fashion designer with no formal fashion education and was looking for a program where I can continue my business, continue working and go to school at the same time. I came back 9 months later after being promised they had a new tutoring system online. Good program for a low price. I am active duty military. You get a real diploma, accepted into most community colleges and all tech schools. That's a lot of money for me.... They won't send one till the program is paid so no problem we paid it and I will say they gave us a 25% off offer at the time if we paid by the end of the month. The diploma looks better in my scrapbook then it does on my wall. If you are a person who smiles when fed crap, doesn't ask questions, and has no ambition to ever go to a real college than PFC is for you, for the rest of you.....GO TO A REAL COLLEGE. hours. However, nine months later an I was told to pay a extension of seventy five dollars to continue the program. VERY slow to send out material, and why do they bother the books are online, till this point all the materials I have use for my test have been on their website. Penn Foster's Student Services is easy to contact and they will work with you to address any problems you may be having with the program. Without PF I would still be a high school dropout but b/c of their HS program I was accepted to Penn State University. I love everything to PF Education is what you make of it!! Online classes are not for everyone, everyone learns differently, some need more assistance than other and some are just plain lazy. I must admit that I was working slower than I should because of pain in my hands. The hospitals are usually too busy The internship is Pass or Fail. The next thing is we scan and email the concurrent enrollment paperwork that the college needs to allow them to go concurrent and all they need to do is sign it stating the expected graduation date is 4/3/2018 and have a principals signature and counselors. A student with a 4.0 GPA, who was always at least a week early for all due dates and who PAID IN FULL I did not exactly what I was told to do and they screwed me over. Which is good enough if you're just interested in small engines or want a job at a lawnmower shop or Sears or something. Did not matter at all to the firm I am with on is it"nationally/regionally" was how much I APPLIED my self I was told by lead-partner,who love also I had as a high school drop out since 90s,15 yrs LAW expertise studies,just had to procure credit within 2 yrs or less.Bachelor Degree. Be disciplined stay off of facebook ect..READ YOUR BOOKS !! I just pass my state certification and I'm proud to say I'm a "CpHt".At least more communication. If you are looking for a program that is self-paced and payment plan friendly, then check out Penn Foster! Please note that if you are NOT a self-motivated person and need someone looking over everything you do you will not enjoy what you are learning! : ) 24 of 26 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - May 21, 2015 Penn Foster is not for everyone, but fortunately...it's the school for me. I know if I can do it anyone can. All they care about is taking your money and DO NOT care if you get the proper education you need!!! STAY AWAY FROM PENNFOSTER! 15 of 23 people found the following review helpful High School Diploma - November 17, 2012 My husband graduated from Penn Foster last year. Not a rookie. You don't get any kind of special certification other than Penn Foster's own little Small Engine Repair Tech Diploma(as far as I know, I like I said I didn't finish). Their only concern is making money, save yourself the aggravation. As with any online college, it's not for everyone. I paid it in full 40 days ago and I'm still waiting for my refund of overpayment. 21 of 22 people found the following review helpful High School Diploma - March 13, 2017 I read reviews on penn foster high school and was uneasy about if I should attend, so many bad reviews so if I was considering this looking to know if I should pay for my school diploma which is not cheap I would do some research first. So if you're a parent and are thinking of putting your child in this program, don't do it. Also, they've used the same tests for years and the questions/answers are just one internet search away. 19 of 24 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - February 26, 2016 Don't bother with this school. Penn foster doesnot guarantee Job placement once you are finished you are on your own. I completed the courses and my certification with AAPC in April, and in Oct I am still looking for a job. I regret coming back to Penn Foster and if you can afford to go anywhere else, I would. Thanks Penn Foster 18 of 21 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - September 28, 2012 Hi, I just wanted to get a bit more updated review about penn foster. 3. Penn Foster was my only real option, as many brick and mortar schools do not offer night classes. Customer service is not that good both for email & call centre 2 of 3 people found the following review helpful Finance - August 16, 2009 Good quality and very cost-effective. Penn Foster's associate degrees are only accredited in the State of Arizona by the way. I have several medical professional friends who have examined my materials, and they have found the content to be correct. You will find your posts will be denied without providing a legitimate reason, if you can get one at all. They refuse to sign because the anticipated grad date is that but they can't say it is an expected date and can't sign because there isn't a principle or counselor, this letter is typed up by the Director of the program who couldn't just sign the form and put director next to his name. maxim: i need the transcript and the proof that i study at pennfoster that is why i need the transcript right now for collage maxim: i am trying to apply Michael Gibson: I'm sorry, but at the moment you are not eligible for an official transcript. The quality of education you receive is in your hands with this school. You would think with so many people asking the same questions, she'd understand that THINGS AREN'T CLEAR!! This is not anything to do with course materials, but rather procedures. One is starting college in the fall, the other is an honors student with AP credits in a traditional high school setting now. My communication skills have improved drastically as a result of the video program. You can create a plan for yourself to keep you on track throughout your studies, plan your graduation date or date to complete your semester. I was excited when they got rid of devil Dr. Margi and her crap staff, but sadly things have not changed for the better. Overall, good school and I have no complaints. I took a medical transcription and medical billing course over 30 years ago and that was one night a week for three months. I ended up buying other study guides off of amazon, passed the exam, and became certified. The online format is convenient for a lot of people but the use of technology is confusing. They claim this is a self paced program BUT you are at their mercy when it comes to receiving your materials. It's supposed to be work at your own pace, totally false advertising. I ran into some financial hardship and i was unable to pay for a couple of months, mind you when i enrolled in Penn Foster I never had any forms to fill out and had NO documents that required a signature.A couple months passed(3) and now I have received something in the mail stating I owe them 1,042.00. Overall, if you are a self-learner I would recommend taking a Penn Foster class. One was a 7th grader who moved to 9th grade in the Penn Foster program. Think before you click and enroll, but not because Penn Foster is a bad school, or a scam, or a money-hungry institution or any of these other far-fetched negative titles that it has unjustly received. If you enroll in the program and fully dedicate to it, you will succeed. ZENEIDA DAVILA 3 of 11 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - June 2, 2015 I absolutely love Penn Foster College. All-in-all, a great experience. Locksmithing is a hands on trade which, I feel, requires hands on training. Because most careers involve too much hands-on work to do online! Hope this helps!! I of 2 people found the following review helpful Associate Degree in Early Childhood Education - December 8, 2009 Be very careful!! They seem wonderful with all of their payment plans, no interest, etc., however, they give you one year to finish each semester and you could take 33 months per semester to pay it off, yet they neglect to tell you that you do not receive your degree until every penny is paid off. I emailed support and informed them. I want to get my masters and maybe even my doctorate someday. Frustrated with the entire school. I called and told them that I wanted to cancel my schooling because I was not getting adequate help. They never went any more in depth than that leading me to believe that who ever checked my work had no idea about dog training. As far as I'm concerned I never finished or signed my life away at any point for me to owe them. However, I do not have to see her face, I do not have to talk to her, I just keep from emailing her what I really feel, and put how I really feel in THIS review. The study guides were mediocre at best; at least 5 times either a) the study guide contradicted the book or b) the answer provided in the book was "not" one of the answers in the study guide. I had to have an official transcript to the college. I am now 35 yrs old and looking for a job has never been so demanding.... Ever heard of student loans? Minimal hands on and lots of reading. maxim: i am trying to study at pennfoster and at the same time start collage( need the transcript to apply to collage), so i can be ahead and complete collage faster and be on my carrier and your not letting me do that and that is very important for my future Michael Gibson: I understand that, but as I explained, you are not eligible for an official transcript until you have paid the remaining balance in full. My husband sat and listened in on her comments to students once and couldn't believe how unprofessional she acted. I decide I want to go back to PF. I spoke to the advisor I had been working with all along, he was always eager to help in the beginning but then I soon realized when money became a factor he was then snooty, so you shouldn't cheat yourself by setting. Stating that courses completed and graduation. I highly recommend this program and school to anyone looking to further themselves. I graduated Penn Foster (then ICS) in 1996 before the advent of the internet and even then support and instruction was excellent. I heard of Penn Foster from a friend/ old co-worker in 2005. One last thing, I certainly would not take the VT course with this school. Usually receive a response in 48 hours or less, barring weekends. 7 of 11 people found the following review helpful Dog Obedience Trainer / Instructor diploma - September 3, 2010 I enjoyed the program very much. I learned alot. I can go at my own pace, and the instructors are always helpful. I like that I can hreak with actual instructors rather than having to wait for a call back from a "tutor" which is what I experienced at Ashworth. I have found quite a few errors in the books I am using - and that's just the errors I have found! I'm supposed to be learning from them and I wonder how much of what I'm learning is wrong. You could pay for the books in installments, but if you changed your mind, you end up paying $500 just to buy your way out. If you want to take care of animals you should not have to take bullshit courses like Math and English which is one of the first things they make you do. The English Department Head agreed to do this. You do have to be dedicated and keep up with your work to succeed, but that's what you're paying to do! The people saying that this program is a scam don't know what they're talking about. Throughout the span of 4 hours, in the morning I might add, I called about once or twice per hour. I recently experienced this because they are so slow on sending them out that i just went ahead and did my exams with out read the online things. At this point I would be happy with a blank email... I'm at the end of semester 3 and I'm going to finish. So basically if you want a school where you have absolutely NO communication from the teacher, only when you have questions, and no communication from your fellow students.... You DO NOT, I repeat DO NOT have to wait for your books to get to your house in order to start your next course. 5 of 10 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - April 2, 2014 First off, I will state that even though people may have some issues with Penn Foster, it is not a scam. Questions regarding proctured exams and internships are not answered and discouraged. 15 of 20 people found the following review helpful Pharmacy Technician - May 30, 2012 Back in 1993 took the automotive tech diploma course and ended up having a nearly 20 year career because of the training I received at Penn Foster. They were horribly aggressive when I requested to withdraw and had a horrible attitude and even said that it would affect my credit rating if I did not pay a cancellation fee of $330ish. As for finishing the diploma I had transfer credits from my high school 16 and only needed to finish 10. I signed up in Jan 2017 and finished this Feb 2017 and paid in full on 03/06/17 and will receive my diploma by the end of this month they told me it the 3 weeks to receive. (I have to write back to say I receive diploma on time end of this month or beginning of April.) As for getting in touch with them honest never had a bad experience once,always easy to get in touch with I call they answer or call back in a timely matter email and get an answer next rude or had the rum around... Happy future executive 36 of 38 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - October 2, 2015 Don't waste your time. (NOTE: Medical Billing and Coding is a profession in which you are at the computer 100%. It is difficult and you have to work hard!! I went to pierce collage and was 6 credits shy of my degree. I have been unemployed for seven months after earning a piece of paper in medical coding and billing. Take note of how many complaints there are with the better business bureau -- AND THERE ARE ALOT!!!!!! . Plan on being frustrated and disappointed along the way, however. I just received my papers in the mail. THE materials sent are worth it & study 28 paperback / study guides. When I decided it was time for me to go back to school, I came back to Penn Foster. I'm not saying that it's not good to know, but you sign up to get classes for medical billing and coding!!!! The only useful lessons were body systems and terminology, which actually you'll have to know when you get to do billing. In general the program could be much shorter and not give you all this unnecessary study material. What about Windows Vista & 7. I have stayed up 4-5 hours after my family had gone to bed to get work done. I got Irrated and told the instructor in a just quit. Getting both to cooperate with each other is nigh impossible. If you lack common sense, don't take this program (better yet-don't go to school). My student has problems looking at a computer screen so I had to print all the study guides, which is what they call the books. I am 16 and I hope this didn't ruin my chances in uni. If they're practically going to hand you a degree for a fraction of the cost of your average degree these days, I don't mind! Good luck to everyone else, and keep it in mind for the future. RESEARCH before diving into life's opportunities! Don't give PF a chance if you aren't self-motivated, because online colleges are designed for people who can teach themselves the material and become their own teacher! 37 of 40 people found the following review helpful Online Degree Reviews.org is not affiliated with Penn Foster in any way. 11 of 16 people found the following review helpful Legal Research - September 15, 2013 I am currently taking a Penn Foster certificate course in Legal Research. The program has improved greatly. This is a top notch school who cares about you the student and provides support in any way possible to assist you during your learning journey! I am a military spouse and the Navy paid my cost to attend Penn Foster. Don't let them fool you with the work at your own pace story or you'll find paying extra like me. The only problems I have had is when I have called in the late afternoon hours and my instructor wasn't there, but to be honest that was me being too lazy to write an email. This is a field where we will be learning until we leave it; new ways of doing treatments, new medications, new technologies, continuing education seminars, ect. The books were shipped to me when I was locked out of the program which are of no use. I have been hung up on at least 10 times and disconnected for unknown reasons at least another 10. the professor was uncaring to my solution and i had to start over...I was already on an extension due to this same problem because the person i enrolled with over the phone failed to explain the discussion board requirements and i tried to prevent the problem again by logging on my phone, they should not allow access on the phone if there system doesn't recognize it...horrible school do not go here! 18 of 23 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - January 19, 2012 I am in my first semester of the Vet Tech program. 18 of 19 people found the following review helpful Business Management - April 22, 2011 I graduate it from Penn Foster on 2008. However, most employers in my area seem to think that my diploma is not good despite the fact that I am now better than those who graduated at our local schools. This program is not suitable for children who have their whole life ahead of them. It took me two years to complete the program, taking 2-3 extensions, for which I paid $75 extra per each one. She is a RN for a large hospital in northern VA. Unless you can sit 6 hrs by their side to do the work. You will not get partial credit. While the school has no problem holding students to their deadlines, they don't seem to mind when students have to wait and become delayed due to the school's incompetence and mismanagement. I now fully understand that the welcome letter they send you, the website and enrollment counselor are very much incorrect. I paid my tuition in full around January of 2010. All they are doing is stealing your money, in short, unless you are willing to pay to lick at the heels of the most power hungry person you have ever met, DON'T THROW YOUR HARD EARNED MONEY AWAY!!! Now couple that with the fact that you can work as hard as you can and it will get you absolutely nowhere because you will be held up waiting for approval that you have clicked a link "frequently" (what does that mean???) until you simply give up...and you have no chance at all at getting through this program honestly. 7 of 7 people found the following review helpful Business Management - August 24, 2010 They would not accept my credits which are from Regionally accredited schools. I do not want to come off completely bashing this institution; it may lead to employment for some people. And I wanted him to feel secure that all the difficult times the school systems gave him, would not leave a negative impact on him and his future. The course itself was above average, but I enrolled under the GI Bill, and once PennFoster has your credit card number, it seems like they could care less about submitting any paperwork to the VA for your benefit. 6 of 6 people found the following review helpful Medical Transcription - December 10, 2009 Ok, so I started the Dental Assistant program a few months ago, and it all seemed GREAT!! But, little did I know, they are not an accredited school!!!!!! Yes, they are accredited in some ways, but not in the ways for getting a state license to work. My son wants to enroll concurrent with college this allows him to take two courses 6 credits of college a semester for free. I can't say whether PennFoster classes better than that or my smart opinion on his own. I know he does well. I stopped going and figured since I was already paying for it and was going to have a del either way I might as well do some extra curricular reading about the time and money be available in the future. If you want, you could finish this CORRECT program. It took me a little longer to get the certificate and they extended me for only 75 dollars, even work with me when I miss a couple of payments. If you don't listen to me I will say "I told you so!" lol 5 of 13 people found the following review helpful Online Degree Reviews.org is not affiliated with Penn Foster in any way. 11 of 16 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - August 29, 2015 While the cost of this program is good, the quality of education and instructors is extremely poor. I am currently a student at Penn Foster and I believe it is a great school. Many of the reviews on this site are misleading and show the school lacks in many areas. The other school required me to participate in class discussions and message boards and to complete all assignments by 11:59 p.m. EST on Sundays. Other than that, I think the school is awesome for working students. So research takes time and then formatting your paper - so a lot of work for no credit hours or continuing education hours. I recommend to spend your money elsewhere. Well, fast forward a couple years later... I hear about Margi and how rude she was, I have never met her, but there is a new director of the program named Jim Hurrel, he is very nice and informative and he actually cares to teach. When I discovered what a Vet Tech IS, I decided to do some research on schools and found Penn Foster. I have been in this program for 4 months now. They mislead the students to believe that it is "go at your own pace". maxim: the last lesson that was shipped from you is really confusing and weird i don't know how to complete it and i called you guys alot of time's and email you about the lesson and now one can help me with it and it's been over 9 months when i got that last lesson shipped i can barley learn anything from pennfoster , does this have to do anything with collection chat session has been terminated by the site operator. When I spoke to them they both had different stories to tell me - one being I turned in the same answers as the solution manual and another being I turned in the same test answers as another student. 5 of 9 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - February 11, 2011 everything you read about the program director at penn foster's vet tech program is true. Oddly, Penn Foster has no delays with their billing department! I of 3 people found the following review helpful Accounting - April 16, 2010 This place is a scam. One final note, I contacted the AVMA and found out that Penn Foster fully meets their requirement for distance accreditation and that there are more expensive schools in the US that do not. Obviously it has been a while, but now that I have gone into the real world I believe I'm better prepared to leave a review. It's common sense (** FOLLOU PENN FOSTER STUDENT!! **) of 15 people found the following review helpful Veterinary Technician - November 4, 2010 This program has one aim and one aim only - to get to your pocket! The program creator does nothing but believe he's the only one who must answer in written form, with only a very few questions where you match answers. Yes, the one thing that is indeed anything about the school is the practicums and clinicals. This place is horrible. Had little reason to contact instructors except on a couple occasions, usually through email, and had responses in 48 hours or less. The advantage is that they are able to change their courses as the real world changes and this keeps their students current. Don't fall for it. I wanted two switch majors and made a call to them two months ago, in those two months I followed every thing I was advised to do to the T, then I make a call to get the ball rolling only to find out almost everything he advised me was incorrect to the point where I am out of $772. I progressed very fast and got all 4 done in about a week!(half way done) Bad:After that, I paid Penn Foster off what I owed, now I have no more payments to make. Then I after I do a project I have to write to the instructor to get my grade. Those Practicums, will make the National Exam much easier. I work 12 hours shifts, I am trying to go to school, she had no sympathy for my issue at all. My son did great on his college placement exams, better then most of the local colleges students did. I flew through my first semester in a couple of weeks and I enrolled in to the second semester. I'm trying to get this done, but there always seems to be a loop hole I miss, which leads to me having to spend more money. They are trying to take care of a lot of people and if you can express your problems in a polite way they are going to try and help you. 22 of 25 people found the following review helpful High School Diploma - October 20, 2012 Great school so far. You can't ignore your studies, half-heartedly do a couple assignments every 3 months and expect to pass or finish. Also, keep in contact with the school when and if issues arise, don't just get pissed and do nothing-after all you're really hurting yourself and furthering yourself from your own goals. We need more like that. I have noticed that everyone on here who likes it all say how fast and EASY it is. I recommend it! Tuition for the HS program was low for me since I completed 9th and 10th grade. Tuition is affordable and all study materials are included. And by the way, my Senior VP has noticed a substantial difference in my contributions to make to the team as a result of this degree program. Talking out lack of knowledge and correspondence from teachers. If you are not interested in a college degree that is recognized or if you feel that this place has what you need then press on. A 55-year-old woman who dropped out 2 months into the 12th grade in 1974 31 of 33 people found the following review helpful Medical Billing & Coding - July 31, 2012 I was pleased with this course until about 11 months in (the course is 15 total.) Out of nowhere the school added eleven additional study units to my course without notifying me at all or extending my deadline. I enrolled in beauty school right after turning 17, graduated a year later, and have since then worked in retail and am now planning on going to college to pursue a career in education. Next: the actual classes. I've had to wait for my books to be shipped. I ended up getting a B in the class but deserved the A I earned. I LOVED going to penn foster. I did try the pay as you go and they moved much slower than I did, I paid for the whole course and had them just send my all the textbooks. I have been wanting to write about pennfoster's online vet program since I left! Where to begin! Let's start with the people that work in the office. It very frustrating, because you have 225 for each section you do after semester 2 and 4, but rather at the firm I work at said, get your B.S. and or B.A. online or at the local colleges.) I chose again Bachelor Degree Criminal J program at Penn. I have no complaints. I was able to implement it with 1/2 of the time it take brick and mortar "students"four long yrs. Penn Foster rules! Penn Foster Pride! 25 of 30 people found the following review helpful Business Management - May 19, 2015 I started the Vet Tech program with Penn Foster a couple of years ago and didn't make it very far. I can never get a straight answer other than wait a bit longer. I thought I could gain more dog knowledge through this program and I learned nothing and wasted $800+. Only career minded and little bookworms can really get through it2 without falling behind and having to carry Last years work over to the next. They kept the books going and ensured that I would not run out of things to do. I rated the teachers low due to the fact I had very little contact with them. 15 of 17 people found the following review helpful Dog Obedience Trainer / Instructor diploma - November 29, 2012 I am currently enrolled in several of Penna Foster's programs and find them to be very informative and up to date. Some of the new policy changes, I never would have signed up if they were in place when I enrolled my student. As far a transfer I know UOP online take their credits. The tests are not easy by any means. Yes, you have the option to stare at your computer screen to read a PDF version of each book, but I just had an experience that has taught me it isn't very wise. I have a B.A. degree that I acquired several years ago at Idaho State U. One huge disadvantage is how basic it is. Although, still keep your eye, cause that's the ONLY way you'll get to speak to anyone or to make a payment. It is one of the worst programs I have ever been in and I am constantly worrying if I will get into the university of my choice in a few years. The only thing we disliked about the school is when we call in to ask questions about transcripts and grades, they are a little reluctant to give much help, if you have not paid all of your fines. I should take my money and attend a reputable institution. Only let of is that I'm stuck on my English Composition course mainly because I despise writing essays, but the instructor has been responding in a kind and timely manner. I still asked questions in conversations and he graduated and eventually became a master plumber-- as far as I am concerned this is not a career in which you need to have proof of a GED/ HS diploma ( training/ experience and passing the state exam is your real worry). Time is more valuable than money- don't invest in hypocrisy. I do agree shipments of the books is kind of slow but I guess it doesn't bother me as much because I do work full time. Also I had to download a lot of the material and since I did not want to read a lot of material online I went to Staples to print it out which was an extra expense for me. The two biggest pitfalls for students in the PF program are 1)finding a veterinary clinic that will allow you to do your "hands on" part of the program (Practicum 1 & 2) and 2)finding a clinic that still does film x-rays, not digital. Their credits are accepted by RA schools. I have already contacted a school and was assured my bachelors degree would be accepted and I would be able to complete my MBA afterwards. 12 of 17 people found the following review helpful Dog Grooming - June 21, 2011 Horrible, it's exactly what it sounds like taking a pet grooming course over the internet. Money brings out the worst in people.
